

Vice President

Bill J. Fisse, B.B.A. '75, M.B.A. '77

Managing Director of Institutional Clients Group and Global Head of Talent and Diversity, Citi

Bill J. Fisse, a 38-year Citi HR executive, is global head of talent and diversity for Citi and a managing director in the company's Institutional Clients Group.

Fisse joined the Institutional Clients Group in July 2009 as senior human resources officer for Citi's Transaction Services Businesses, the leading provider of cash management, treasury and trade services, and securities fund services in over 100 countries around the world.

Before joining Citi Cards, Fisse spent two years in London as division HR director for Citi's consumer businesses in Central and Eastern Europe, the Middle East, and Africa. Prior to his assignment in London, he managed HR for a number of Citi's North America consumer businesses.

Fisse's passion is implementing human capital strategies that are aligned to the business to help build a high-performing organization, where high performance is defined as sustained business growth. He also has a passion for the importance of "Building Your Personal Leadership Brand," a topic he enjoys speaking about both internally at Citi and externally at universities and HR organizations.

Fisse holds a B.B.A. in business management and an M.B.A. in finance from the University of Miami. He serves on the Foundation Board of The Borough of Manhattan Community College and the Alumni Board at the University of Miami.

Currently residing in Dix Hills, New York, with his wife, Stacey, Fisse has two daughters, Arielle and Jessica. He is a "foodie," an avid sports fan, and loves to travel internationally.
