Member at Large
Managing Partner, EY

Camila Cote serves as the control and methodology leader (CAML) for EY's Latin America North region. Cote is responsible for providing audit methodology support to EY's teams from Mexico to Peru, ensuring their people have all the tools necessary to execute their roles in achieving EY's purpose of building a better working world by equipping them with the resources and insights they need to provide exceptional service to their clients. Prior to the CAML role, she served as managing partner of the Miami office.

As a partner in EY's assurance practice, Cote has over 25 years of experience with financial statement auditing, including integrated audits, registration statements and technical consultations. She also has significant experience in performing services related to major transactions, including mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, exchange offers, initial public offerings, secondary offerings, debt offerings, and revenue recognition accounting for complex contracts. Cote has worked internationally, leading internal inspection activities in South America, Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean, and Israel. She also spent two years in the strategy and transaction practice in Madrid, Spain, where she served clients in Europe and the Middle East.

Cote is significantly involved in the inclusiveness efforts for EY and deeply invested in the Miami community. She serves in various community activities and professional trade organizations, including the United Way of Miami-Dade, the Association of Latino Professionals for America, and the American and Florida Institutes of CPAs.
