

Jose Armario, Chief Executive Officer and President of Bojangles', Inc.

Jose Armario has been chief executive officer and president of Bojangles', Inc., a restaurant operator and franchisor, since January 2019. Armario has 38 years of senior leadership experience with such brands as Burger King, LensCrafters and McDonald's.

He retired as executive vice president of worldwide supply chain, development, and franchising of McDonald's Corporation in October 2015, after having held that position since August 2011. During his time with McDonald's Corporation, Armario served in several prominent leadership positions including president of McDonald's Chile, and group president of McDonald's Canada and Latin America.

Armario is a director of Golden State Foods and Bojangles', Inc., a member of the President's Council of the University of Miami and a director for Receptions for Research: The Greg Olsen Foundation. He is also a former board member with the USG Corporation, Avon Products, Inc., the Chicago Council on Global Affairs and a former director with the Council of the Americas, NY, and Ronald McDonald House Charities of Latin America.

Armario was born in Havana, Cuba, and came to the United States with his parents when he was two years old. He is married to his high school sweetheart, Mary, and they have three grown children. Listed among his interests are strength training, University of Miami Athletics, traveling and Shelby Mustangs.